

What they pay to play

The Boston Globe

September 2, 2007

Correction: Because of a production error, a chart accompanying a Globe North story last Sunday about sports user fees contained incorrect information about area three high schools. Hamilton-Wenham Regional has no family maximum when it comes to athletic fees, while Manchester Essex Regional has a $330 family maximum. Saugus High School has no lower fee for freshman athletes.

Among the schools in the region's cities and towns, some charge fees for each season (per sport), while others charge a lump sum (per student) for the school year. Charges for some sports, notably hockey, are higher at some schools. Some districts have a maximum a family can pay. Eight school districts do not charge athletes to suit up.
